

Broadcast starts here. Join our team!

Are you looking for a professional challenge within the media industry? Do you want to develop creative ideas and design new things? To think independently and to rely on a strong and dynamic team? If you are striving for new and exciting opportunities, if you prefer variety over routine and if you have a gene for broadcast inside you – talk to us! Become part of our team. Personal development guaranteed!

As one of the leading system houses in the European and international broadcast business, we are constantly looking for new talents. At locations in Germany, France and the USA, we work as project developers and system architects for multimedia broadcast visions.

Junior Project Engineer IT (f/m) – Location: Paris, France

You develop and plan solution platforms for modern workflows within the media business. Discover potential for the use of modern IT technologies for the needs of our clients and put them into practice. Know-how, creativity and efficiency are your motivation. Your enthusiasm for innovation strengthens our customer relationship and creates a long-term bond.

- This includes
- Conception and planning of modern IT solutions for media, TV and radio
 - Presales support of our customers during the conception phase
 - Execution of workflow and process analysis at the customer
 - Support of the in-house team in handling customer inquiries
 - Support during integration and commissioning of IT installations
 - Conducting trainings and briefings
 - Documentation management

- Requirements
- Study of communications engineering / IT / media technology or comparable (desirable)
 - Experience with media information systems (ingest, production, playout, news, MAM,...)
 - Basic knowledge of IP-based streaming technologies
 - General practical experience with current IT technology
 - Language skills: French, English
 - Joy in independent and structured work

- Benefit from
- Freedom from restrictive requirements (e.g. graduation)
 - Motivated, dynamic teamplayers in a company with short decision paths
 - Educational measures
 - Flexible and trust-based working hours

Passion, courage and lateral thinking are very popular with us. We have room for every talent. Please address your application to Christina Opitz (info@thummahr.de) and find your chance with us.